Your invitation to feature in this great new guide to accommodation and adventure in Kenya.

New camps and lodges have been springing up all over the country - but many are unknown by Kenyans and expatriate residents who are holidaying in their own country as never before. This new full colour book aims to put people in touch with all those fantastic places to stay in many wonderful locations. It aimed at a local and overseas audience of people looking for something different but don't know about the opportunities on offer. It will also be distributed to travel agents – both local and overseas – as a unique reference guide.

'Where to Stay in Kenya' will be published in the first quarter of 2009 in time for the domestic tourism season. It is simultaneously stylish yet practical, equally at home on the coffee table or the dashboard. It covers lodges, camps, cottages, houses, bandas and campsites in a very wide range of localities in all price ranges. The book will be kept in print for a year before printing a second edition which will include client feedback on listed properties.

Why you need to feature in this guide

To keep the cover price low and maximise distribution, we are inviting contributions from featured properties. The guide does not profess to be all encompassing, so it offers you a unique opportunity to feature amongst the best that Kenya has to offer, placing your property directly in front of agents and clients. It will help with the revival of Kenya tourism as well as fighting off the effects of global recession. Only those properties who meet our copy deadlines will be included so please don't miss out.

'Where to Stay in Kenya' is published by Steve Shelley, writer, commentator and consultant. Steve has been a regular contributor to TN magazine and has been widely published as shown below. The guide is produced by Steve's company TACKAfricaBooks.
